Graduated from School of Pharmacy, University of Alexandria; Omnia El-Hossieny started her long-continued endeavor to help implement patient-centered pharmaceutical care that is compassionate, appropriate, and effective in both community and hospital clinical Pharmacy settings.

A journey that started from Canada, being certified, and licensed as a registered pharmacist, and working as a staff pharmacist for a large chain, gaining a broad experience in the field.

With an endless passion, she took the next step of her journey in Kuwait where she worked as a clinical research assistant at Tracer -Dasman Diabetic Institute.

Her last stop was at Skaggs school of pharmacy, University of Colorado where she is currently a Pharm-D candidate, and a project manager of NAPHS Consultancy in Egypt, delivering a blend of clinical experience, education, and creative market solutions.
